

REFRACTIONS — ONE PAGER

Genre: Sci-Fi Thriller / Conspiracy Drama

Format: 1-Hour Serialized Series

Tone: Atmospheric • Emotional • High-Tension

Created For: Netflix • Amazon • Apple TV+ • Max • Paramount+

LOGLINE

When the world's first human clone escapes a secret biotech program, she discovers others like her, each fatally linked to their unsuspecting "prime." As bodies begin to fall, she must protect the life she was never meant to have while exposing the conspiracy that created her.

THE SERIES

Refractions is a high-concept thriller that blends the emotional complexity of This Is Us with the adrenaline and mystery of Orphan Black and The Bourne Identity. Every major character exists in two versions, prime and clone, offering dual performances, parallel lives, and explosive collisions as fate, identity, and autonomy unravel.

This is a show about survival, legacy, and the fight to define yourself in a world determined to decide for you.

THE HOOK

- Fatal Link Mechanic: If the prime dies, the clone dies. A built-in ticking clock for every storyline.
 - Dual Roles: Actors play two distinct versions of the same character, prestige, awards-level performance opportunity.
 - Conspiracy Engine: Corporate corruption, genetic ethics, rogue clones, and a fixer known as The Warden hunting them all.
 - Emotional Core: Identity, free will, belonging, and the trauma of discovering your life was engineered.
-

MAIN CHARACTERS

- Alexis Grant / Laura Grant: Clone and prime. One fighting for a life she never had; the other questioning the life she built.
 - The Warden: Cold, calculating corporate hunter whose obsession with Alexis destabilizes the mission.
 - Dr. Mia Sandoval: The scientist who created the clones and is now running from her own creation.
 - Ben Hartley: Journalist connecting mysterious deaths to a buried truth.
 - Samir Patel: Rogue clone, furious and charismatic, leading an underground survivor network.
-

VISUAL STYLE

Neo-noir with refracted light, double-exposure portraits, fractured glass, and a deep teal/amber palette. Gritty cityscapes meet cold, clinical futurism. Emotional warmth contrasted with corporate sterility.

WHY NOW

At a time when AI, genetic editing, and synthetic identity define global headlines, Refractions taps into urgent cultural anxieties:

Who owns our DNA? Who controls our story? What makes us... us?

A bold, relevant thriller with emotional depth and franchise potential.

MARKETABILITY

- Prestige genre with mainstream appeal
 - Strong female lead(s)
 - High-concept hook perfect for teasers, trailers, and viral campaigns
 - Multi-season mythology and spinoff potential
 - Dual-role casting = built-in awards campaign
-

TAGLINES

- One life. Two paths. Both can't survive.
 - Every reflection hides a truth.
 - What you don't know can kill you.
-