THE INFLUENCER'S LAST POST

She built her life online.
He's about to take it apart.

FEATURE FILM
PSYCHOLOGICAL THRILLER
PROPOSED BUYER: BET+

Written by K.R. Tenney

The premise

When Atlanta influencer Taylor Monroe is framed for her best friend's staged suicide, she must expose the tech mogul running an AI behavioral-mimicry system before he uses her own digital identity to silence her permanently.

The story

A public collapse

Taylor has 2.3 million followers. After Nina disappears from an Atlanta bridge, the internet decides Taylor is responsible.

A friend who keeps posting

Nina's familiar captions and cadence continue online. Taylor discovers that her friend is alive and hiding from Derek Mason.

A manufactured identity

Project Echo can imitate the women so convincingly that even the people closest to them struggle to recognize the truth.

The investigation

Taylor follows the private clues

Handwritten captions and shared memories offer a way through the public evidence that Derek controls.

An insider carries the proof

Bianca helped Nina disappear. Her evidence and knowledge of Echo become essential to exposing Derek.

Taylor takes control

With Marcus beside her, Taylor turns Derek's own system against him and risks a final confrontation to recover her name.

The women at the center

TAYLOR MONROE

An Atlanta creator whose sharp instincts sit beneath years of brand training. She must become the investigator in her own story.

NINA BAPTISTE

Taylor's best friend and a planner under pressure. Her disappearance protects a secret and leaves Taylor to face its consequences.

BIANCA COLE

A gifted technical insider caught between Derek's coercion and loyalty to Nina. Helping the women requires confronting her complicity.

The ally and the antagonist

MARCUS WEBB

A former cybercrime investigator and Taylor's ally. His authority grounds the investigation, while his warmth lets Taylor risk trusting someone again.

DEREK MASON

A controlled, persuasive tech entrepreneur. He presents coercion as reasonable business and uses the women’s digital identities to keep them dependent.

Trust becomes a choice with consequences

Atlanta and Project Echo

The world

Creator ambition, luxury rooftops and curated apartments contrast with private rooms where friendship and family still matter.

The threat

Echo copies a face, a voice and a posting rhythm. The people who know Taylor best must decide whether they believe the woman or the screen.

Tone and visual approach

Psychological suspense with an intimate emotional center

Public image

Controlled framing, polished light and invasive screens make Taylor's curated life feel increasingly unsafe.

Private truth

Natural faces, handwritten words and imperfect rooms restore intimacy. The visual contrast follows Taylor's changing relationship with performance.

BET+ positioning and creative references

A Black female protagonist drives an Atlanta thriller about friendship, ambition and control in the creator economy.

CREATIVE REFERENCES

Acrimony
Betrayal and emotional escalation

Searching
Digital investigation and screen storytelling

A Fall from Grace
Atlanta setting and reversals of trust

The Girl on the Train
A compromised heroine and uncertain evidence

Casting references: the women

Casting references only. No talent attachments represented.

TAYLOR MONROE

Keke Palmer
Dominique Fishback
Meagan Good

NINA BAPTISTE

Antoinette Robertson
DeWanda Wise
Logan Browning

BIANCA COLE

Nafessa Williams
Simone Missick
Essence Atkins

Performance focus

Taylor carries terror, wit and grief. Nina must earn renewed trust. Bianca holds the tension between complicity and courage.

Casting references: the men

Casting references only. No talent attachments represented.

DEREK MASON

Omari Hardwick
Morris Chestnut
Laz Alonso

MARCUS WEBB

Algee Smith
Sinqua Walls
Kendrick Sampson

Derek's menace lives in his restraint. Marcus brings authority without eclipsing Taylor's agency.

The film package

PROPOSED PRODUCTION APPROACH

Atlanta locations
A recurring core ensemble
Reusable apartment and office interiors
Selective bridge and mountain exteriors

K.R. Tenney
NCCA Entertainment Inc.
contact@nccaentertainment.com