

LOGLINE

Framed by the architect of Singapore’s all-seeing grid, a traumatized American agent and a disgraced inspector must disappear into the city’s analog blind spots to stop a stolen quantum key from erasing identity and finance across ASEAN.

THE HOOK

The smartest city becomes the perfect trap. Every camera hunts them and every connected system can turn hostile, so their escape route is human: paper maps, mechanical watches, radio networks, forgotten tunnels. At Lau Pa Sat, the grid misreads a satay skewer as a gun.

THE STORY

ACT I
THE SYSTEM
IS THE CRIME

Julian Vane steals the Sovereign Drive, a quantum key. A deepfake frames Jack Vance, the DSS agent protecting a U.S. Senator. Only Sarah Chen sees the lie. Jewel Changi, Marina Bay Financial Centre, Lau Pa Sat.

ACT II
THE ANALOG
NETWORK

The city locks down. From stormwater tunnels to Little India and the Supertree Grove, the Gray Cell works the grid’s blind spots while Vane’s Reset threatens every financial and identity record across ASEAN. Maya’s capture makes resistance costly.

ACT III
THE RESET

A two-path assault on Marina Bay Sands. Offered proof of her father’s blackmail, Sarah beats Sloane with inherited silat and destroys the terminal at 98% instead, while Jack turns the roof into a fuse. The grid reboots, and an anomaly in Seoul points to what comes next.

AT A GLANCE

FORMAT	Feature film
GENRE	Tactical action / tech thriller
SETTING	Singapore, present day
TO NE	High-octane, emotionally grounded
LOOK	Digital: teal surveillance, steel geometry. Analog: rain, paper, mechanical time.

TONAL COMPARABLES

Mission: Impossible Rogue Nation	Practical action
The Bourne Ultimatum	Man vs. system
Enemy of the State	Surveillance paranoia
Sicario	Moral gray zones

- WHY IT WORKS
- ◆ AI and surveillance turn everyday life into suspense.
 - ◆ Asian and Western co-leads carry the emotional stakes.
 - ◆ Landmark action grows from the city itself, and the Gray Cell supports further stories.

THE PLAYERS

JACK VANCE

40S · AMERICAN DSS AGENT

In Kyiv, an AI misread a child’s toy as a bomb and lives were lost. Paper maps, twin revolvers, instinct. His way back is trusting people.

SARAH CHEN

30S · SINGAPOREAN INSPECTOR

Discredited for exposing system anomalies. Her father defended the grid, then died under mysterious circumstances. She chooses the city over vengeance.

JULIAN VANE

50S · THE SHADOW ARCHITECT

An erased civic visionary who calls mass erasure salvation. His enforcer, Sloane, reads every move through building sensors.

THE GRAY CELL

THE ANALOG RESISTANCE

Uncle Tan knows the colonial tunnels. Ravi builds jammers. Maya runs a rogue taxi radio net.
