

THE FEED

"The system isn't broken. It's watching."

A brilliant Black tech entrepreneur moves into an exclusive, seemingly idyllic smart-home community, only to discover its advanced security system is a sophisticated tool for racial profiling, forcing him to fight back against the insidious surveillance built into the very foundation of his new life.

SERIES OVERVIEW

The Feed is a timely, socially resonant thriller blending high-stakes drama with real-world technological anxieties. With gripping suspense, powerful emotional arcs, and a provocative central mystery, the series explores the intersection of race, privacy, and power in a world ruled by data.

Designed for Lifetime audiences craving bold, smart storytelling with heart, The Feed balances edge-of-your-seat paranoia with deeply human stakes.

High-stakes technological thriller

Socially resonant commentary

Deeply human emotional stakes

Provocative central mystery

CHARACTER PROFILE

MALIK JOHNSON

30s

A charismatic, visionary tech founder hoping to redefine home security with his startup NiaLink. He begins the series confident and optimistic, but becomes disillusioned, then enraged, then inspired to fight back. Malik is the emotional and intellectual heart of the show.

Optimistic

Disillusioned

Enraged

Inspired

 Charismatic

 Brilliant

 Visionary

 Protective

 Justice-Seeking

 Tech-Savvy

SUPPORTING CHARACTERS

LEXI

16

Malik's bold, Gen Z cousin from East Oakland. She's observant, unfiltered, and unafraid. Her presence exposes the neighborhood's quiet hostility and triggers Malik's transformation.

Bold

Observant

Unfiltered

Unafraid

CATALYST

MRS. ELLISON

70s

A widowed former civil rights activist who lives quietly in the neighborhood. Initially mysterious, she becomes a crucial ally and moral compass, guiding Malik toward rebellion and legacy.

Experienced

Moral Compass

Mysterious

Supportive

MENTOR

SUPPORTING CHARACTERS

BRYCE

30s

Malik's white co-founder. Profitable, polished, and blind to systemic issues. He dismisses Malik's fears, representing microaggressions and complicity.

 Co-Founder

TASHA

30s

Malik's girlfriend. Her departure signals the toll Malik's fight is taking. She adds emotional resonance and cost to his journey.

 Emotional Anchor

THE HOA / RESIDENTS

Various

A Stepford-like collective of affluent, mostly white tech homeowners. Beneath the pleasantries lies deep-seated prejudice cloaked in apps, policy, and "safety."

 Collective Antagonist

TONAL & THEMATIC PILLARS

The four foundational elements that define the series' unique perspective and narrative approach

Psychological Suspense

The growing paranoia and isolation as Malik realizes the extent of surveillance in his new home, creating a claustrophobic atmosphere of constant observation.

Surveillance

Isolation

Gaslighting

Paranoia

Social Commentary

Exploration of how technology can amplify existing biases and prejudices, examining the intersection of race, class, and power in supposedly "neutral" systems.

Racial Profiling

AI Bias

Data Weaponization

Systemic Inequality

Empowerment

Malik's journey from victim to activist, using his technical expertise to fight back against the systems designed to control him and others like him.

Resistance

Tech Activism

Legacy

Community Building

Modern Relevance

Grounding the narrative in contemporary concerns about privacy, surveillance capitalism, and the growing influence of technology in our homes and communities.

Smart-Home Culture

Gentrification

Privacy Erosion

Digital Redlining

ACT I - THE MOVE-IN

Malik arrives on Magnolia Lane, the first Black homeowner in a smart, exclusive community. He's welcomed with smiles and a drone. Quickly, offhand comments and digital "glitches" hint at something darker. When Lexi is flagged as a threat, Malik begins to see the system not as protection—but as a weapon.

ARRIVAL

Malik moves into the exclusive smart community, optimistic about his future and impressed by the advanced security system.

WELCOME COMMITTEE

The HOA welcomes Malik with practiced smiles and subtle microaggressions disguised as neighborly concern.

FIRST GLITCHES

Malik notices strange "technical issues" with his home security system that seem to occur only around him.

LEXI INCIDENT

When his cousin Lexi visits, she's flagged as an "unauthorized presence," triggering Malik's first real suspicions.

"Welcome to Magnolia Lane, Mr. Johnson. Our community AI has already added your biometric data to the security system. You'll find it's quite... thorough."

— HOA President

ACT II - THE GRID

Malik uncovers coded bias within the neighborhood's surveillance algorithm. He's gaslit by his co-founder, monitored by neighbors, and targeted through push-notifications and manipulated footage. After a violent "wellness check" ruins a celebration, he realizes the entire system is built around controlling him.

ALGORITHM DISCOVERY

Malik discovers racial profiling code embedded in the neighborhood's security system

CO-FOUNDER BETRAYAL

Bryce dismisses Malik's concerns, revealing his complicity in the system

SURVEILLANCE ESCALATION

Neighbors increase monitoring as Malik's behavior becomes "suspicious"

THE WELLNESS CHECK

A violent police response to an automated alert during Malik's celebration

