

SLICE OF PARADISE

Genre / Format: 30-Minute Episodic Comedy

Created by: Kelly R. Tenney

Tone: Warm, Quirky, Uplifting

Setting: Sunny Shores Retirement Community, Florida

LOGLINE:

When a washed-up musician reluctantly takes a job as activity director at a Florida retirement community, he's shocked to find the residents living louder than he ever has. Between surprise karaoke rivalries, emotional revelations, and a mischievous senior named Evie, Jake Carter must figure out how to grow up, by learning from the people society has written off.

SYNOPSIS:

Slice of Paradise is a sun-drenched, character-driven workplace comedy set in an unconventional setting: a vibrant retirement community where the residents are more chaotic than calm. The show centers on Jake Carter, a sarcastic and unmotivated thirtysomething who finds himself stuck managing everything from senior speed-dating to turf wars over bingo night. But as he gets pulled into the daily drama, he forms unexpected friendships, confronts his own arrested development, and realizes that fun and purpose don't retire at sixty-five. Each episode blends laugh-out-loud misadventures with heartfelt themes of second chances, intergenerational connection, and redefining what it means to grow old (or up).

KEY CHARACTERS:

- Jake Carter (34): Failed musician turned reluctant activities director. Witty, jaded, and in over his head.
 - Evie Stanton (76): Sharp-tongued, big-hearted queen of Sunny Shores. Challenges Jake at every turn.
 - Al Hernandez (79): Retired cop with a no-nonsense demeanor and a dry sense of humor.
 - Dr. Priya Kapoor (38): The composed, clever community physician—Jake's will-they/won't-they foil.
 - Freddie Diaz (25): Over-eager assistant who worships Jake and complicates everything.

MARKETABILITY:

- Cross-generational ensemble with broad audience appeal
- Unique, underrepresented setting full of comedic potential

- Flexible format for broadcast or streaming platforms
- Built-in opportunity for legacy casting + holiday specials
- Comparable to Grace and Frankie, Ted Lasso, and The Good Place

TAGLINE:

Where fun never retires.
