NCCA ENTERTAINMENT PRESENTS

PAPER TAGS

A crime thriller with a mother's heart. Original feature screenplay.

A Black Atlanta detective needs her ex-lover to be guilty and her mentor to be good. The paperwork she trusts says she is wrong on both counts.

THE STORY

When a young musician is shot dead outside an Atlanta club, Detective Tasha Monroe promises his mother she will get the killer. All the evidence points to Dre Coleman, the man she once loved and put away. To prove it, she signs Dre on as her confidential informant, and Captain Ray Delgado, the mentor who built her career, hands her the keys. Then Tasha learns the truth: the stolen-car ring runs on forged impound releases, every release carries Delgado's initials, and the people being pulled into it include her teenage nephew Jalen. Tasha has to confess her own misconduct, trust the man she tried to convict, and refuse the one lie that could save her badge.

WHY IT SELLS

Female-led jeopardy. Tasha is in every scene and every choice costs her something real.

Family at the center. Guardian and nephew, mentor and protege, former lovers: three relationships, one pressure cooker.

Justice with a price. Tasha takes a reprimand and six months on a desk. No clean slate, which is why the ending lands.

Built for the format. Act structure built for commercial breaks (Lifetime cut). A spec version with no act headings is ready for streamers.

Grounded in Atlanta. Waffle House, Hollowell Highway, body shops, church ladies, and the Savannah port. Local texture that drives story.

Image-driven. A ring, a steel pry bar, a taped glove, a blue GPS dot and an unfinished bass line carry the plot without speeches.

AT A GLANCE

Format	Feature screenplay, approx. 90 pages (Lifetime cut). Spec cut, approx. 87 pages.
Genre / tone	Crime thriller with melodrama. Grounded, emotional, escalating.
Primary buyer	Lifetime. Secondary: BET+. Also fits ALLBLK, TV One, and streaming crime slates.
Audience	Women 25 to 54, with strong crossover to crime and family-drama viewers.
Comparable energy	Training Day corrupt-mentor dynamics, told through a female lead with Lifetime-style family stakes.
Setting / scale	Metro Atlanta and Savannah. Contained locations. Port climax built around one small geography.
Status	Script complete, five development passes. Cast and package open.

THE ASK

NCCA Entertainment is seeking a lead and a producing partner to take Paper Tags to a Lifetime or BET+ development slot. We can deliver the full script, a character bible and a cast deck on request.

Kelly R. Tenney, Founder, NCCA Entertainment. 20+ years in film and television, including nine seasons as co-producer on One Tree Hill.